When the Washington and Baltimore clubs get together, an exciting contest can always be looked for, and yesterday's game at American Park was no exception to the rule. Manager McGraw started the pot boiling in the very first inning by calling Umpire Mannasau a "beautiful" name for being declared out at third on a close play, and as a result he was put out of the game.
Wherever the Baltimore go this season two umpires follow, and yesterday Sheridan and Mannasau introduced the double umpire system to this city for the first time this season. The two arbitrators cannot be charged with being "home umpires" yesterday, as all the close decisions went to the Orioles, and in addition several which were not close. As a result of these decisions, several hundred hot-headed "fans" made matters quite lively for both umpires after the game, and the police were called upon to escort them to the cars.

The game was a well-contested one from start to finish, and it required ten innings before a decision could be reached, when the Baltimore won out by the score of 3 to 1.

Case Patten was on the rubber for the Senators, and with perfect support would have pitched a shut-out game, and the same applies to McGinnity, who did even better in the matter of hits, the home team getting its solitary tally through misplays of the birds.

The first five innings were fruitless in the run-getting line to both teams, although Baltimore started off in the first inning as though it would walk away with the game in the easiest sort of style. McGraw opened up with a double to left, and then, in endeavoring to "show up"atcher Clarke, tried to steal third. Captain Hill sent a beauty to Coughlin and the Baltimore leader was nailed in artistic style, Mannasau being right on top of the play.
McGraw then said "things" to Mannasau, and as a result he was ejected from the remainder of the game. Williams followed with a triple, but it was wasted, as Keister went out. Coughlin to Dunagan.

Baltimore Scores.

In the sixth Baltimore scored a tally, but it was a suspicious one, and a closer watch on Williams by Mannasau might have nullified the clever Orioles' efforts. Williams began work with a hot one to Clingman, which the latter failed to hold. Keister followed with a line drive into right, and on Gear's fumble "Will" was home. Then Seymour then hit into left field, and Foster's sensational catch of the line fly Williams crossed the plate. From the press box it looked as though Williams didn't go and another by Robinson, coupled up with Clarke's bad throw to third, sent two runs over the plate, and they were enough to win, as McGinnity continued his clever pitching to the end.

To the hot-headed spectators who wanted to mob the umpires, the following rule should prove interesting reading, as it demonstrates that Sheridan and Mannasau were acting correctly and impartially.

The rule covering the point is section 3, rule 35, which declares that "if a person not engaged in the game should retain possession of the ball or throw or kick it beyond reach of the fielders the umpire shall call time and require each base runner to stop at the last base touched by him until the ball be returned to the pitcher standing in his position."

BANNER MEET OF THE SEASON.

The Racing at the Coliseum Track Friday Night.

The banner meet of the season is expected at the Coliseum Friday night, at which time the half-mile motor-paced race between Tom Linton and Albert Champion is scheduled to take place.
Everything is in readiness for a good meet, and the electric lights around the big bowl will be tested tonight and again tomorrow night, in order that they will be in perfect condition for Friday night.

Tom Linton, who will ride against the champion of France, Albert Champion, is considered by many the greatest race-winner Europe ever saw. In making his record years ago and has held it, and is at the present time the reigning sensation of Europe, being one of the most-sought after riders of the continent. Linton won his races all over Europe, jumping here, there and everywhere, and riding any one at almost any distance. Just before leaving his home country Linton was the greatest race of his life. With as busy a man as Tom Linton, this means a lot, for he has not been riding for all of the twelve years since he dropped his pick in the coal mine in Wales. Linton wants to win the international series, and he is working hard to do so before leaving with this object in view. He wants to go at Michael, and before doing so he wants to beat all of the other riders of note.

France has produced many great spectacular bicycle riders than the combined countries of the world, principally of which were Henri Fourner, and Albert Michal, and of late years, the French companion in France. If anything, Champion is more of a dare-devil than Fourner, even in his palmist days. He has caused himself to be killed, due to the extreme takes to win by his nerve in a legitimate way, but even with all Linton having raced him on a number of occasions abroad is willing to accept his coming-like dashes in a close call or finish.

Champion is admittedly one of the fastest-paced riders of the country, and is looked to as a probable candidate for premier honors this season.

Last year he won the great Parisian route race, which has entries from all parts of Europe. He is the holder of the world's three-hour record. As a motor expert he has achieved great fame. Last year he won the 100-mile in 1:38 at the track at Readeville, and broke several records at the Charles river carnival.

In the absence of the "pro" riders, the amateurs are putting in very hard training for the amateur events Friday night. Last evening there were sixteen local riders practicing around the big bowl, pacing and sprinting, while the other opportunity. The entries in the two-mile handicap being unusually large, the race will be a final. These four events will be one-mile novice, will make up a fine program of sport, which will be full of interest from the crack of the pistol in each event.

CHANCE REMARK OF AMERICAN ANGERS

The British Crew.

A dispatch from London last night says: Both the Americans and the British have been congratulating themselves on the fact that the Henley regatta passed off without incident, and that the British crew, the Pennyfathers, were victorious. The British congratulations were premature. Friday night the Leaders gave a dinner to the Pennsylvania. All the prominent rowing authorities were present. The speeches teemed with compliments. The British said they had never met a better or more sportsmanlike crew. The Pennsylvanians replied that they had never been more fairly and squarely beaten, the only explanation was that the Leaders were not rowing.

The speeches were all of this tenor till the American crew was called upon to say that they treated all the British squad, they had found all the arrangements in regard to the races perfectly fair, and that they had no objection to the British oarsmen were dundum, and did not answer while the Pennsylvanians were there, but the storm broke out immediately after they had departed and still continues. The Leaders are bitterly indignant, and say they will not row against the Pennsylvanians again.

The head master of Eton writes to the Times today advocating the exclusion of all foreign crews from Henley. "If the result of Friday's race had been different writes Dr. Warre, 'whatever we might have thought, we could not have uttered the disagreeable remark that we had know
